Brands you trust. People who know.

When winter weather hits and your porch steps, sidewalks, and drive-ways ice up, you want to know that you won't slip and fall unexpectedly. You want to go out and buy some ice melter, but which kind should you get? There are so many! At Benedict's, we mainly sell six different kinds of ice melter. Here is a little about each of them.

Calcium Chloride - 50lbs. - $24.99

- Pellet or flake form
- Actually gives off heat when dissolving
- Low temperature ice melter—to -25 degrees
- Moderately corrosive but okay on concrete
- 2-4 oz. per square yard

Magnesium Chloride - 50lbs. Pellets - $24.99 Flakes - $22.99

- Less harmful to the environment, concrete, pets, and people
- Leaves no residue, as it is completely soluble
- Lasts longer than other ice melt products

Magic Salt - 50lbs. - $24.99

- Environmentally friendly
- Save time, money, & labor - viscous coating sticks to surfaces, reducing bouncing & scattering
- Works to -22 degrees
- Reduced corrosion from normal rock salt

Road Runner - 50lbs. - $14.99

- Blend of Calcium, Magnesium, & Sodium Chloride
- Safe on streets, driveways, sidewalks, steps and the environment
- Doesn't track
- Odorless & colorless

Rock Salt - 50lbs. - $7.99

- Contains Sodium Chloride
- High temperature ice melter—to +20 degrees
- Do not use on anything but asphalt
- Can injure animals
- Economical
- 8 oz. per square yard

Road Runner Pet Friendly - 20lbs. - $14.99

- Magnesium Chloride
- Safe for pets paws as well as the environment
- Melts to -20 degrees

Once you have chosen the ice melter that is right for you, simply spread it on your icy areas and let it do the job for you! It's always a good idea to avoid walking on the area until it begins to melt, as you can track the ice melter into your home and possibly damage your carpets or flooring.
